1. [] Talked further with George Murphy, Joint Committee on Atomic Energy staff, about his inquiry yesterday concerning [] assistance to Communist China in the computer field. Murphy has apparently been advised that there is an Agency report on conversations with the [] in 1967 by Nikita Khrushchev. Murphy is interested in the substance of this report. He went on to say that he understands that the subject of the sale of computers to the Soviet Union is expected to be the topic of conversation between [] and President Nixon and Murphy would not be at all surprised if the Director is drawn into this subject.

3. ([] - GLC) I advised Leonard Killgore, on the staff of Senator Barry Goldwater (R., Ariz.), of my followup contact with [] several days ago. I told him that [] appeared to be satisfied with our response and I doubted there would be any further contact with him on this subject. Killgore thanked me for the call and mentioned he had forwarded to us a seven-page letter which the Senator had received from a woman who might well be a crackpot, but said he wanted to pass it on to us "just in case."
